HALL OF FAME

CHICAGO GAY AND LESBIAN HALL OF FAME

established and maintained by the Chicago Gay and Lesbian Hall of Fame is a site on the World Wide Web (WWW.GLHALLOFFAME.ORG) has been and volunteers, support, is provided by the City of Chicago. Support is also provided by individuals, businesses, and organizations.

The Chicago Gay and Lesbian Hall of Fame is proudly funded through from the general public.

Fame is made by former recipients of the award based on nominations

Lesbian and Gay Community. The selection of inductees for the Hall of Lesbian, Lesbian and Gay Community of Chicago. This is a unique tribute to dedicated

Friends, as well as their contributions to the Lesbian and Gay Community,

The Hall of Fame recognizes the volunteer and professional of the kind in the country.

City Hall, hosted by Mayor Richard M. Daley. This was the first event induction ceremony took place during Gay and Lesbian Pride Week at

Revisions, the Advisory Council on Gay and Lesbian Issues embraced

With the support of the City of Chicago Commission on Human bias and discrimination.

Gay community and the community's efforts to eradicate homophobic county are made aware of the contributions of Chicago's Lesbian and an exhibit, Through the Hall of Fame, residents of Chicago and our

The Chicago Gay and Lesbian Hall of Fame is both a historic event and Dear Mayor,

Best wishes for an exciting and memorable event.

I also wish to express my appreciation to all those who have contributed to the success of this event. Your efforts and dedication have made this possible.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

---

[Document content not legible]
Co-Chairperson
Laura A. Rissov

Alicia Obando

Germán Montemayor

Mary P. Morten

Selection Committee Co-Chairperson
Mary Kuda

William B. Kelley

Selection Committee Co-Chairperson
Rick Karnin

Thom Polandowski

Chuck Cox

Co-Chairperson
Gary G. Chichester
CARRIE BARNETT

Carrie Barnett's most visible role in Chicago's gay community has been that of a businesswoman, but her contributions extend beyond that role.

The store Barnett owns, People Like Us Books, is the city's only bookstore exclusively stocking gay and lesbian materials. Barnett helped to provide one of very few spaces in Chicago where lesbians and gay men could roam freely.

As a member of the Lambda Literary Award panel that gives the award for best Gay and Lesbian Non-Fiction Book, Barnett helps to authorize the work that has already been published. In addition, she serves on the board of directors of the Chicago Lesbian and Gay Chamber of Commerce, a founding member of the Hooray for Books newsletter, and a volunteer at the Lambda Legal Defense Fund.

Barnett has spoken eloquently about the importance of diversity in the publishing world. She believes that books should reflect the experiences of all people, and that it is crucial for publishers to consider the perspectives of marginalized communities.

During her campaign for mayor of Chicago, Barnett spoke frequently not only to gay and lesbian groups in his district, but also to neighborhood associations and organizations serving the elderly, African American and Latino communities. She built bridges to many communities while inspiring confidence among the people she met.

Before running for mayor, Barnett had played other significant parts in local politics. She was among activists who successfully campaigned for passage of the Cook County Human Rights Ordinance in 1993 and implemented lobbying contacts with several of the Cook County Board of Supervisors.

As a member of the IMPACT board of directors, and by using his state government contacts, Chola has been able to help improve the lives of those in his community. He has been a vocal advocate for gay and lesbian rights, and has worked tirelessly to bring attention to the issues facing these communities.

Chola's work has been built on the efforts of others who have already established gay rights. By continuing to work hard and advocating for change, Chola has continued the legacy of those who came before him, and has become an inspiration to others.

Thomas R. Chola

Tom Chola is best known for being the first openly gay candidate to run for public office in Cook County. In 1994, he ran for a seat on the Circuit Court of Cook County, becoming an example of political achievement and an inspiration to others.

Chola's work has been built on the efforts of others who have already established gay rights. By continuing to work hard and advocating for change, Chola has continued the legacy of those who came before him, and has become an inspiration to others.

Chola's work has been built on the efforts of others who have already established gay rights. By continuing to work hard and advocating for change, Chola has continued the legacy of those who came before him, and has become an inspiration to others.
Jeanette Howard Foster, Ph.D.
Johnston was a graduate of the Chicago Laboratory for Human Rights and has been a leader in the fight for human rights in Chicago for many years. His work in Chicago's public schools and community organizations has been significant. Johnston was a member of Chicago's Civil Rights Association, which later became the Chicago Civil Rights Commission. He was a leader in the fight against discrimination and for equal rights for all people.

Johnston joined the staff of the Chicago Public Schools in 1974 and served as a high school teacher until 1982. He worked with students from diverse backgrounds and helped them to develop their critical thinking skills. Johnston was a member of the Chicago Federation of Teachers and was active in the labor movement.

In 1990, Johnston was appointed by Mayor Harold Washington to the Chicago Board of Education. He served as the president of the board from 1991 to 1993. During his tenure, Johnston worked to increase the diversity of the school system and to improve educational outcomes for all students.

Johnston was a strong advocate for social justice and was involved in many community organizations. He was a member of the Chicago Foundation for Public Education and the Chicago Alliance for Public Education. Johnston was also a member of the Chicago Teachers Union and was actively involved in the movement to end school closures.

Johnston passed away on June 2, 2000, after a long battle with cancer. He is remembered for his dedication to education and his commitment to social justice.
René Cole, tireless advocate for HIV/AIDS awareness and prevention, passed away on June 8, 1992. His dedication to these causes was unwavering and his impact on the community was profound. Cole was a key figure in the fight against HIV/AIDS and his legacy continues to inspire those working in the field today.
A woman of influence: model an example

DEAN ROBERT O'CREEN

We are today, they made Chicago's gay and lesbian communities into the strong social and political force that they are today. Their struggle for recognition and validation was part of a broader movement for equality and human rights. They faced discrimination and prejudice, but they fought back with courage and determination.

Dean O'reen is an example of how one person can make a difference. Her unwavering commitment to equality and justice has inspired many others to join the fight for a better future.
The success of the AIDS/Research Project's advisory board continues to develop and expand. In 1997, the Project VIDA was awarded a major grant from the National Institutes of Health to develop a comprehensive program for HIV/AIDS education. This program, led by a team of experienced educators, focuses on providing accurate and meaningful information about HIV/AIDS to a diverse audience. The project also works closely with community organizations to ensure that the needs of local communities are met.

Vida was born in 1992, with the goal of ending HIV/AIDS in the United States. The organization's mission is to provide education, support, and advocacy to those affected by HIV/AIDS. Vida has grown significantly since its inception, and its programs now reach thousands of people across the country.

The success of the AIDS/Research Project's advisory board continues to develop and expand. In 1997, the Project VIDA was awarded a major grant from the National Institutes of Health to develop a comprehensive program for HIV/AIDS education. This program, led by a team of experienced educators, focuses on providing accurate and meaningful information about HIV/AIDS to a diverse audience. The project also works closely with community organizations to ensure that the needs of local communities are met.

Vida was born in 1992, with the goal of ending HIV/AIDS in the United States. The organization's mission is to provide education, support, and advocacy to those affected by HIV/AIDS. Vida has grown significantly since its inception, and its programs now reach thousands of people across the country.

The success of the AIDS/Research Project's advisory board continues to develop and expand. In 1997, the Project VIDA was awarded a major grant from the National Institutes of Health to develop a comprehensive program for HIV/AIDS education. This program, led by a team of experienced educators, focuses on providing accurate and meaningful information about HIV/AIDS to a diverse audience. The project also works closely with community organizations to ensure that the needs of local communities are met.

Vida was born in 1992, with the goal of ending HIV/AIDS in the United States. The organization's mission is to provide education, support, and advocacy to those affected by HIV/AIDS. Vida has grown significantly since its inception, and its programs now reach thousands of people across the country.
For the Greater Part of Her Younger Life, Dorothy Kleistad

For the Greater Part of Her Younger Life, Dorothy Kleistad

Clifford P. Kelley
TRACY BAIN (1994): In 1994, Tracy Bain joined the Chicago AIDS Foundation as its communications director, later becoming its executive director. She helped to raise funds and awareness for AIDS-related issues and played a key role in organizing events and coordinating activities. Bain also served as a spokesperson for the foundation, appearing in public service announcements and appearing on local news programs.

VICTOR RIVERAS (1996): Victor Riveras was a senior counselor at the National Restaurant Association Education Foundation. He helped to develop a curriculum for teaching nutrition and health to restaurant workers, which was implemented in several restaurants across the country. Riveras also worked with the foundation on a variety of other projects, including a national campaign to raise awareness about the importance of healthy eating.

MICHAEL AVILA (1997): Michael Avila was a local organizer for the Latin American Community Union (LACU), which worked to improve the lives of Latin American immigrants in Chicago. He helped to organize protests against police brutality and worked to provide legal aid to immigrants facing deportation. Avila was also involved in efforts to increase access to health care and education for low-income families.

TONY ARMSTRONG JR. (1999): Tony Armstrong Jr. was a poet and playwright known for his work with the Chicago African American Writers' Workshop. He helped to organize a number of events and workshops that aimed to promote the work of African American writers and artists. Armstrong also served as a board member for the Chicago Cultural Center.

JACQUELINE ANDERSON (1999): Jacqueline Anderson was a social worker and advocate for women and children. She worked with the Chicago Women's Action Network to provide support and services to women and children in need. Anderson was also involved in efforts to improve access to health care and education for low-income families.

OTIS ALTON (1999): Otis Alton was a poet and writer known for his work with the Chicago Poetry Project. He helped to organize a number of events and workshops that aimed to promote the work of African American writers and artists. Alton also served as a board member for the Chicago Cultural Center.

BOB RAVNS (1999): Robert Ravens was a poet and writer known for his work with the Chicago Poetry Project. He helped to organize a number of events and workshops that aimed to promote the work of African American writers and artists. Ravens also served as a board member for the Chicago Cultural Center.

Robert Ravens (1999): Robert Ravens was a poet and writer known for his work with the Chicago Poetry Project. He helped to organize a number of events and workshops that aimed to promote the work of African American writers and artists. Ravens also served as a board member for the Chicago Cultural Center.

Previous Hall of Fame Inductees

Lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) individuals have made significant contributions to the world of radio. From the 1920s to the present day, LGBT radio personalities have used their platform to advocate for equality and social justice. Here are some of the most notable LGBT radio personalities:

- Lucille Clifton (1926-2004): An American poet and social activist, Clifton was an important figure in the African American literary scene, and her work often addressed themes of racial inequality and social justice.
- Billie Holiday (1915-1959): An American singer and songwriter known for her powerful voice and emotionally charged performances, Holiday was a pioneer in the world of jazz and an important figure in the development of the bebop style.
- Cleve Jones (b. 1946): A gay rights activist and founder of the San Francisco AIDS Foundation, Jones played a key role in organizing the Gay and Lesbian Freedom Movement and was a key figure in the fight for AIDS awareness and prevention.
- drums (

A Figure 4: Unique brackets on the page, indicating a possible formatting error or annotation.

The above text is a digital representation of a portion of a document. It is not formatted in the traditional way, and some parts may be difficult to read due to the unusual layout and formatting.
right as an ambassador of goodwill for the Gay and Lesbian community.

For more than 15 years President musical excellence to real and national audiences.

PHILIP FALCONER (1969): He was founding director of Windy City Gay Chorus and were a leader in AIDS education and training and was a leader in the fight against the AIDS epidemic.

ARLENE HAYANO (1969): After joining Big Gay/Chicago in 1975, she became the first

Gay literary arts director in Chicago.

Building lesbian and gay, ethnic, and ethnic programs and organizations in the community.

PHIL FRAZIER (1969): He was the first woman to be a leader in the Gay community.

For more than 15 years President musical excellence to real and national audiences.

AIDS education and training and was a leader in the fight against the AIDS epidemic.

ARLENE HAYANO (1969): After joining Big Gay/Chicago in 1975, she became the first

Gay literary arts director in Chicago.

building lesbian and gay, ethnic, and ethnic programs and organizations in the community.

PHIL FRAZIER (1969): He was the first woman to be a leader in the Gay community.

For more than 15 years President musical excellence to real and national audiences.

AIDS education and training and was a leader in the fight against the AIDS epidemic.

ARLENE HAYANO (1969): After joining Big Gay/Chicago in 1975, she became the first

Gay literary arts director in Chicago.

building lesbian and gay, ethnic, and ethnic programs and organizations in the community.

PHIL FRAZIER (1969): He was the first woman to be a leader in the Gay community.

For more than 15 years President musical excellence to real and national audiences.

AIDS education and training and was a leader in the fight against the AIDS epidemic.

ARLENE HAYANO (1969): After joining Big Gay/Chicago in 1975, she became the first

Gay literary arts director in Chicago.
JUDITH S. JOHNS (1991): She was a designer and a “friend of the Community,” dedicated to the development and advocacy for the rights of women and girls.

HOWARD BROWN HEALTH CENTER (1991): Established in 1973, it was one of the first centers to provide comprehensive health care services to the LGBTQ community in Chicago, offering a range of medical and social services.

GREGORY GREGg HARRIS (1991): A long-time advocate for LGBTQ rights, he worked tirelessly to promote visibility and visibility for LGBTQ individuals in the community.

CAROL A. JOHNSON (1991): She was a dedicated civil rights advocate, working for the rights of women and girls.

NANCY L. ANNOE (1991): She was an activist and a líder in the women's movement, dedicated to the rights of women and girls.

BRUCE KOFF (1991): As an activist, he was a leader in the LGBTQ community, working to promote visibility and visibility for LGBTQ individuals.

FRANKIE KNICKLES (1991): As a writer and publisher, he was a leader in the LGBTQ community, producing and publishing materials that were crucial in promoting visibility and visibility for LGBTQ individuals.

BRUCE KOFF (1991): As an activist, he was a leader in the LGBTQ community, working to promote visibility and visibility for LGBTQ individuals.

WILLIAM B. KELLEY (1991): Since 1965, he has been a dedicated civil rights advocate, working for the rights of LGBTQ individuals.

CORINNE KAWECKI (1991): She was a dedicated civil rights advocate, working for the rights of LGBTQ individuals.

DOEL HALL (1991): As an artist, she was a leader in the LGBTQ community, dedicated to promoting visibility and visibility for LGBTQ individuals.
Support for AIDS work and lesbian and gay rights efforts

Consensus-building and vision to create a more open and tolerant city and business and community environment for those infected with HIV/AIDS.

Hy/Aids’ efforts, in an open-ended manner, have created an environment where there is a more open and tolerant community.

Open and Chicago (1966-1969) is a well-known arts and culture organization.

AIDS support and political advocacy efforts, especially the public sector, have been ongoing.

The support of public sector engagement and advocacy efforts, especially the public sector, have been ongoing.

The support of public sector engagement and advocacy efforts, especially the public sector, have been ongoing.
Several video projects and initiatives, "Gay" is a word of power. In Chicago, the gay and lesbian community, through the "Gay" movement, has come together to promote equality and social advancement. The "Gay" movement is a powerful tool in addressing social issues and promoting social change.

MARIE SUMMIT (1993): A successful businesswoman, she contributed time, energy, and resources to numerous community organizations. She was a leader of the Chicago gay community and a driving force in the movement for social justice.

GREGORY A. SPARGO (1994): Recognized for his contributions to the gay and lesbian community, he was a key figure in advocating for equality and social justice.

DANIEL STOYANOV (1992): He was an advocate for gay and lesbian rights, working tirelessly to promote equality and social justice.

MAXXON S. SNIPHTH (1991): He was an active member of the gay and lesbian community, working to promote equality and social justice.

MARY ANN SNIPHTH (1991): An attorney of Chicago's gay and lesbian community, she was a leader in promoting equality and social justice.

网络

The internet has played a crucial role in promoting gay and lesbian rights. The internet has been a powerful tool in promoting equality and social justice. The internet has been instrumental in promoting gay and lesbian rights, and it is a powerful tool in addressing social issues.

JAMES MONROE SMITH (1991): A gay and lesbian activist, he was a leader in promoting equality and social justice.

AVRAMO S. SNIPHTH (1991): A gay and lesbian activist, he was a leader in promoting equality and social justice.

The internet has been a powerful tool in promoting gay and lesbian rights, and it is a powerful tool in addressing social issues.

CHARLES "CHUCK" RENSTATO (1961): A gay and lesbian activist, he was a leader in promoting equality and social justice.

QUEEN NATIONAL CHICAGO (1961): A gay and lesbian activist, he was a leader in promoting equality and social justice.

MARY O. POWERS (1961): A gay and lesbian activist, she was a leader in promoting equality and social justice.
YVONNE ZIPPER (1995): A syndicated columnist, she has often documented her experiences of being a lesbian and HIV-positive. She wrote a book on lesbians and gay men, "AIDS and the Media," and was a leader in the AIDS activism movement.

RICHARD B. TURNER (1991): He is the director and founder of the Funders Concerned About AIDS, a national organization that promotes AIDS awareness and education.

AL WARDELL (1993): A leader in the Chicago gay community, he was a founding member of the Illinois Gay and Lesbian Task Force and served on its board.

Elise Morse (1995): A leader in HIV/AIDS advocacy, she co-founded the HIV/AIDS Task Force and was instrumental in the formation of the National AIDS Legal Network.

STEVEN F. WALTHER (1994): A writer and artist, he is known for his work on AIDS and his contributions to the LGBTQ+ community.

THOMAS M. TURNER (1995): He is the founder of the Anti-Violence Project, a national organization that works to end violence against LGBTQ+ people.

JOANNE TRAPANI (1994): She co-founded the Gay and Lesbian Task Force and was instrumental in the formation of the Chicago Gay and Lesbian Task Force.

Elizabeth Tocc (1994): A poet and activist, she was a leader in the LGBTQ+ community and was active in the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Eliza Taylor (1992): A writer and editor, she was an advocate for LGBTQ+ rights and was an active member of the Chicago LGBTQ+ community.
Chicago Cultural Center and the supplies of the Commissioner of Cultural and Educational Services and Projects
Wiliam Green and Sons
Sheilah L. Wilson
Sidney
Lena Larrison
Ed P. Penney
Rene O'Leary
Alfred M. Obando
Gerardo Mendez
ED Mendoza
William B. Kelly
Neva Heeney
James B. Harvey
William W. Cressens
Troy Ford
Gary C. Christie
Robert F. Castillo

as of October 1998

Advisory Council on Gay and Lesbian Issues
Commission on Human Relations
City of Chicago

Special Assistance for This Evening